

PURATATTVA NO. 19 (1988-89)

CONTENTS	Page
Editorial
ARTICLES
Archaeology of Thanesar: A Brief Report on Excavations at Harsh-Ka-Tila B.M. Pande	1
Pande reports on excavations unveiling a cultural sequence from Kushana to Mughal Periods
Early Farming communities of Kaimur Foot-Hills Birendra Pratap Singh	6
Singh suggests that Senuwar/ Chirand complex represents mature stage of Neolithic culture, as obvious from agriculture and craft specialization
Rgvedic Base of the Pasupati Seal of Mohenjo-Daro S.P. Singh	19
Singh forwards evidence suggesting inherence of the motif of the Pashupati Seal in Rgveda
Pollen Analysis and Chemical Examinations of a Prehistoric Lake Site At Damdama M.D. Kajale and B.C. Deotare	27
Kajale and Deotare summarise results of pollen analysis and microfossil, preservational potentials of prehistoric lake site at Damdama
On Flake-Blade Element in India Ashok K. Ghosh & Dipankar Chaudhury	31
Ghosh and Chaudhury emphasise on the need for classification, standardisation and terminological nomenclature in relation to Palaeolithic culture
The Date of King Dhanadeva of Kosala: A Re-Examination of the Palaeographic and Historical Evidence B.B. Lal and K.K. Sharma	38
Lal and Sharma attribute Dhanadeva to 1 st Century AD on the basis of palaeographic and historical evidences
Rakta-Lokesvara in Indian Buddhist Art Shashi Asthana	43
Asthana discusses a Buddhist deity in National Museum in 1965 and points out that Vajradharma and Rakta-Lokesvara forms of Avalokitesvara are rare in Indian art
Urban and Palace Water-Works During the Mughal Period Mohd. Afzal Khan	46
Khan argues that a technologically standardized water management system was formulated by the Mughals during 16 th Century AD

Knapping Technique and Craft Specialization: an Ethnoarchaeological Investigation in Gujarat Valentine Roux and Jacques Pelegrin	50
Roux and Pelegrin present an ethno archaeological study of ceramics in Rajasthan and Haryana and knapping technique of agate and carnelian beads in Gujarat
Ethno-Archaeology of the Traditional Ceremonial Pottery of Gujarat Syed Anis Hashmi	60
Hashmi conducts an ethnoarchaeological study of clay pots made and used in social and religious ceremonies in Gujarat
Exposing and Conserving a World Heritage Monument A.K. Sharma	64
Sharma briefs on the history of churches and convents in old Goa, discusses their architecture and conservation
NOTES & NEWS
Excavations of a Vedic Brick Altar At Purola, District Uttarkashi, Central Himalaya K.P. Nautiyal and B.M. Khanduri	68
Some More Copper Objects From Sheorajpur Suryakant Shrivastava	70
Casing Slab From Nagarjunkonda-A Reappraisal Anamika Pathak	72
Archaeological Testimony of Surunga and the Mauryanism of the Arthasastra of Kautilya Suresh Chandra Mishra	74
Prehistoric Research in India: As viewed by two senior American Archaeologists K. Paddayya	77
BOOK REVIEWS
D.R. Raju, Stone Age Hunter-Gatherers: An ethno-archaeology of Cuddapah regions, South east India H.D. Sankalia	80
Anant Ramkrishna Sinai Dhume, The Cultural History of Goa From 10,000 B.C. – 1350 A.D. H.D. Sankalia	80
B.S. Deshmukh, Iconography of the Hindu Temples in Marathwada Shashi Asthana	81
Lolita Nehru, Origins of the Gandharan Style-A Study of the contributory influences M.C. Joshi	81
Executive meeting of World Archaeological Congress	84

