

PURATATTVA NO. 2 (1968-69)

CONTENTS	Page
ARTICLES
Outlines of the Archaeology of Nepal N.R. Banerjee, Archaeological Advisor to H.M.G., Nepal	1
Banerjee resumes the archaeological work in Nepal and recommends academic and administrative restructuring of the department
Discovery of Lithic Artifacts in Jammu Area G.C. Mohapatra and Hari Mohan Saroj, Punjab University, Chandigarh	11
Mohapatra and Saroj report on explorations in the valleys of Ravi and Chenab, which yielded lithic industries belonging to the Early Sohan
Regional Variations in the Indian Middle Stone Age Culture with Special Reference to Nalgonda in Andhra Pradesh S.N. Rao, Gauhati University, Gauhati	13
Rao briefs on explorations in Nalgonda district which yielded Middle Stone Age artifacts
Some New Fossil Discoveries from Western Maharashtra, India S.N. Rajaguru, Deccan College, Poona	16
S.N. Rajaguru briefs on new fossil discoveries from the Pleistocene deposits which survived due to better environmental settings in the peninsula
Plant Remains from Ancient Bhatkuli : District Amraoti, Maharashtra Vishnu-Mittre and H.P. Gupta, Birbal Sahni Institute of Palaeobotany, Lucknow	21
Mittre and Gupta discuss carbonized plants in the form of brittle blocks of ash and silt containing chick-pea and spiklets of giant millet belonging to Early Historical Period
Determining the Technique of Handmade and Wheel-Turned Pottery by Microscopic Analysis S.P. Gupta, National Museum, New Delhi	23
Gupta gives the result of his ethno archaeological survey on potters and potteries with reference to Chirag Dilli, a village in New Delhi
New Light on Central Indian Archaeology through Kayatha Excavations V.S. Wakankar, Vikram University, Ujjain	26
Wakankar gives the summary of excavations at Kayatha, which has revealed major phases of Malwa Chalcolithic culture

Rajghat Copper- A Metallurgical View H.C. Bhardwaj, Banaras Hindu University	30
Bhardwaj summarizes the results of quantitative estimation of arsenic, and metallographic examinations of copper and bronze objects from Rajghat
Chalcolithic Burials: The Tekwada Evidence M.K. Dhavalikar, Deccan College, Poona	35
Dhavalikar discusses the typological, ceramic and stratigraphic evidences and shows that there were two distinct burial traditions
Stratigraphy, Probable Climatic Phases and Dating of the Stone Age Cultures of Upper Son Valley Nisar Ahmad, Banaras Hindu University	41
Ahmad attempts to work out a chronology of the stone age industry and the climatic phases associated with them in the Upper Son Valley
Megalithic Remains in the Aravallis Purushottam Singh, Banaras Hindu University	46
Singh enlists the megalithic remains at Khera, Satmas and Daosa in Aravallis
Three Crystal Pendants of Identical Design P.K. Agrawala, Banaras Hindu University	49
Agrawala looks into three crystal pendants from Bhita, Rajghat and Sonpur which have identical human face designs
MISCELLANEA
A Crystal Human Figure from Sonapur B.P. Sinha, Patna University	51
A Rare Chaturmukha Siva-linga from Nand near Pushkar, Rajasthan R.C. Agrawala, National Museum, New Delhi	53
A Neolithic Burial from T. Narasipur M. Seshadri, Mysore University	55
An interesting Sealing from Musanagar Kiran Kumar Thaplyal, Lucknow University	57
Some Ancient Sketches in Khajuraho Temples Deenabandhu Pandey, Banaras Hindu University	59
ARCHAEOLOGY IN UNIVERSITIES	60